

14 JULY 1787 Today the fleet crossed the equator. However, not many people were well enough to take part in the special King Neptune ceremony with the special dunking in seawater.

