

23 SEPTEMBER 1787 The fleet is now halfway to Cape Town. The sea is mountainous and the ships roll dangerously. This storm has lasted a week. The convicts are very frightened.

