

Cook reached Tahiti in 1769, observing the eclipse on June 3. He stayed three months with the friendly islanders.

