

It was also suggested, that it might be an excellent place to start a convict settlement many miles away from England.

