

Europeans were not only interested in the spices and precious stones from Asia, but also in this mysterious "Great South Land".

